

Powered by Water and Oxygen!

HydraMax Recirculating Deep Water Culture Systems

Hydroponic Farming is the Future!

The Green Revolution starts now!

Controlled Environmental Agriculture (CEA) has become an increasingly popular method for cannabis production, marking a turning point in agriculture with the introduction of new technologies and farming methods. With hydroponic systems, growers can control every aspect of the growing process, ensuring consistent and high-quality yields. Water saving is another major benefit of hydroponics. With hydroponics, water usage is significantly reduced as the water can be recycled and reused, reducing costs as well as waste and conserving resources.

Deep Water Culture - Done differently by HydraMax.

Take control over the growth of your plants with the HydraMax indoor hydroponic system.

HydraMax hydroponics empower farmers to grow their plants more efficiently and effectively.

- Manage pH and nutrients to make sure your plants are getting exactly the nutrients they need.
- Save water with a closed system that recycles the water not used by your plants
- Control temperatures and lighting schedules to optimise indoors plant growth
- Create farms in locations where soil conditions are too poor to support farming or space is limited

Recirculating Deep Water Culture is the method of growing plants in nutrient rich, oxygenated water instead of soil. HydraMax is pushing the boundaries of Deep Water Culture evolution by recirculating the water in a smart way.
